Houston Philanthropy Circle (HPC) is a philanthropic organization whose membership is composed of philanthropists who act to benefit the Houston community through charitable giving. Members benefit by hearing from a broad range of nonprofits at the Nonprofit Symposium as well as networking with like-minded peers at the Philanthropist's Dinners.

NONPROFIT SYMPOSIUMS

Starting in 2019 with the inaugural Nonprofit Symposium hosted at University of St. Thomas, HPC has continued to bring local nonprofits and philanthropists together. Each year, HPC selects new nonprofits which have been vetted by an appointed HPC committee for their value to the community and the overall effectiveness of the organization. Selected nonprofits are given the opportunity to share their missions and visions with short presentations at the HPC Symposium. As a purely educational opportunity, philanthropists are invited to attend the symposium to determine for themselves if they want to broaden their philanthropy to a selected few of the presenting nonprofits.

PHILANTHROPIST'S DINNERS

HPC Philanthropist's Dinners are an opportunity for like-minded philanthropists to socialize and share their experiences and vision for philanthropy in Houston. Keynote speakers for this event have included Kim Sterling, President of Sterling Associates and Lloyd Bentsen III, former founding Chairman Executive Board of National Christian Foundation Houston.
